

Building Open Research, Development and Innovation Know-How

A Model for Lahti University of Applied Sciences

Johanna Kiviluoto, Lahti University of Applied Sciences, johanna.kiviluoto@lamk.fi

Riikka Sinisalo, Lahti University of Applied Sciences, riikka.sinisalo@lamk.fi

Results

- National organizational maturity evaluation ranking (from unmanaged to defined)
- 97 % of publications available open access in 2018
- Openness embedded in future RDI activities as a core value
- Positive feedback and networking

Students

- Open science principles as a part of information literacy teaching
- Extensive guides and localized guidelines
- Open science MOOC for self-learning

Personnel

- Skills building program
- Trained open science experts
- Versatile training sessions bookable on-demand
- Extensive guides and localized guidelines
- Open science MOOC for self-learning

National guidelines, co-operation and peer-learning

Ingredients

Organizational commitment

- Open culture as an objective
- Openness integrated in policies

Open science experts

- Requires training and dedication
- Connected throughout the organization

Evaluation & development

- Learning and adapting in compliance with user needs and feedback